THE UNITED STATES NAVAL ACADEMY

HISTORICAL SKETCH

The United States Naval Academy is an institution of higher education conducted by the Navy Department for the purpose of preparing young men to enter the lowest commissioned ranks of the Navy and Marine Corps. It was founded as the Naval School in 1845 by the Honorable George Bancroft, historian, educator, and Secretary of the Navy, to improve the then unsatisfactory methods of instructing midshipmen. It was located at Annapolis, Md., on the site occupied by Fort Severn, which was given up for the purpose by the War Department. At first the course was 5 years, of which only the first and last were spent at the school, the intervening 3 years being spent on board ships on active service. It was reorganized in 1850-51 as the United States Naval Academy, with a course of study of 4 consecutive years. A summer practice cruise replaced the omitted sea service, and gave better opportunities for intensive training. During the Civil War the Academy was moved to Newport, R. I., but was brought back to Annapolis in 1865, where it has since remained. In the following years great improvements were effected in the organization and curriculum. From 1873 to 1912 the academic course was 6 years, the last 2 of which were spent at sea. In 1912 the course was fixed at 4 years, the 2 years at sea being omitted. During the Civil, Spanish-American, and World Wars, the course was shortened to provide more officers for the fleets. During the World Wars large classes of Reserve officers and Reserve midshipmen were trained at the Academy.

The students undergoing the course at the Naval Academy have been called in turn, acting midshipmen, midshipmen, cadet midshipmen and cadet engineers, naval cadets, and since the act of Congress approved July 1, 1902, midshipmen. A midshipman is an officer in a qualified sense. He is appointed a midshipman in the Navy, not merely at the Naval Academy, is subject to the orders and regulations of the Navy Department, but does not now participate in the benefits of retirement or longevity. He may be ordered to sea duty although this is not customary except on practice cruises. He ranks after a commissioned warrant officer, and ahead of a warrant officer. Upon graduation he may be commissioned an ensign in the line of the Navy, or a staff corps, or as a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps. In addition, 25 percent (178) of the members of the class of 1951 were commissioned as second lieutenants in the United States Air Force in accordance with instructions of the Secretary of Defense.

Under the Superintendent, the Academy is organized into the following departments: The executive department headed by the commandant of midshipmen who is charged with leadership instruction, interior discipline, drills, and tactical instruction; and the departments of seamanship and navigation, ordnance and gunnery, marine engineering, aviation, mathematics, electrical engineering, English, history and government, foreign languages, hygiene and physical training. At present about 25 percent of the academic work is devoted to the social-humanistic subjects, about 50 percent to the scientific-engineering subjects, and about 25 percent to the military-professional subjects.

Beginning in the year 1899, following an appropriation of $10,000,000 by Congress for the purpose, the Naval Academy was almost completely rebuilt in the French Renaissance style after the designs of the architect, Mr. Ernest Flagg, of New York. The grounds of the Academy proper now comprise 256 acres (Government-owned) and 45 acres (leased) along the west bank of the Severn River, on which are 293 buildings with equipment totaling an original cost of $34,798,299.

An act of Congress approved on May 25, 1933, authorized the Superintendent to confer the degree of bachelor of science upon all graduates from and after the date of the accrediting of the Academy by the Association of American Universities. That association had placed the Naval Academy on its approved list on October 25, 1930, and graduates commencing with the class of 1931 became eligible for the degree. By virtue of an act of Congress approved July 8, 1937, the Superintendent is now authorized to confer the degree upon all living graduates.

The total number of graduates of the United States Naval Academy, including the class of 1951, is 22,496.

The administration of the Naval Academy is under the Bureau of Naval Personnel, Department of the Navy, Washington, D. C. Entrance requirements are fully set forth in the pamphlet Regulations Governing the Admission of Candidates Into the United States Naval Academy as Midshipmen and Sample Examination Questions, copies of which may be obtained by application to the Bureau of Naval Personnel. A description of the course of instruction is contained in the pamphlet, Course of Instruction at the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., copies of which may be had by applying to the Academy.

Three R5D "Skymasters" and one R60 "Constitution" were the aircraft employed, operating under the direction of Commander Fleet Logistic Air Wing, Atlantic/Continental. Four air cruises were conducted between July 14 and August 10. Each battalion going on an air cruise was divided into two groups, 100 midshipmen in the "A" group embarking in the "Constitution" and 150 midshipmen in the "B" group in the three R5D's. The air cruises were limited generally to the eastern half of the United States. Each cruise itinerary included two Naval Air Stations and one Air Force Base. The bases visited had prepared extensive programs to acquaint the midshipmen with the various phases of aviation represented at their respective activities. Side trips included commercial research and manufacturing activities.

Each battalion spent one week at the Naval Air Test Center, Patuxent River, Md., where the midshipmen observed and were instructed in the operation of five test sections; i. e., Flight, Tactical, Service, Ordnance, and Electronics.

CAMID VI

Midshipmen of the second class participated in two weeks of joint amphibious training with the second-class cadets from the U. S. Military Academy at the Naval Amphibious Training Base, Little Creek, Virginia, during the period August 11–August 26.
